

Educational component	Elective educational component 9.1. «Security challenges in international relations»
Level HE	First (bachelor) level
Name of specialty / educational-professional program	291 «International Relations, Public Communications and Regional Studies» / «International Relations»
Form of study	Full-time
Course, semester, duration	4 year, 8 semester, 5 credits
Semester control	Credit
Number of hours (total: including lectures / practical)	150 hours (10 lectures, 20 practical)
Language of instruction	English
Department that provides teaching	Department of International Relations and Regional Studies
Author of the Educational component	PhD in Economics; Associate Professor of International Relations and Regional Studies Department Oksana Pikulyk
Brief description
Requirements for the beginning of the study	Understanding the essence of international relations and international security
What will be studied	A complex of current threats and challenges affecting international security, as well as methods of their analysis, prevention and resolution within the framework of the modern system of international relations; security parameters in modern international relations; the role of international organizations in overcoming the challenges of international economic, informational, environmental, and military security in the modern world; the essence of security processes in modern international relations and their impact on the functioning of states.
Why it is interesting / necessary to study	The study of security challenges in international relations is relevant, since international security involves the formation and development of a system of international relations based on the observance by all states of generally accepted principles and norms of international law. The study of the educational component will allow analyzing the impact of security threats on the processes taking place in the modern world.
What you can learn (learning outcomes)	To know and understand the essence and nature of security challenges and opportunities to overcome them at the global, regional and national levels, know approaches to resolving international conflicts. Analyze the role of international organizations and structures in overcoming threats to international security. Conduct a professional discussion on security problems of international relations, argue your position.
How to use the acquired knowledge and skills (competencies)	The ability to analyze security threats and challenges, develop skills in assessing their impact on the international system and preparing strategies to overcome them. The ability to analyze the nature and evolution of international security organizations, their place in the system of international relations.